

Street Fundraiser Tips

Dress for the weather!

It might sound obvious but if its chilly out, break out those Long-johns and thermal vests. If its sunny don't forget your shades and flip flops!

Do your research

Whether you want a long term career in the charity sector or not, learning about the inspiring work that charities do is great, and reminds you that there are some amazing stories out there, some great and uplifting stories, and the sadder ones that help you take perspective on your own troubles.

Also the more you know about the work the charity you represent does, the more you can educate the public, making your job that bit easier.

Keep searching for those special people

There are some incredible people out there! Not only those who sign up but those who will brighten up your day with a smile, a joke, or a friendly chat. Connecting with people is great, it's one of the perks of the job, you just have to keep on the look out for those extra special people.

Don't forget why you are out there

If you are having a tough day, just remember that you are out there representing those who need you. Yes the financial rewards can be great, but going home after a hard days work knowing you have fought the fight for those in need is even more rewarding.
